War Inevitable, Hull Tells Probers

By WILLIAM THEIS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23 (INS)—Former State Secretary Hull told the Pearl Harbor committee today from the beginning of the U. S.-Japan negotiations in 1941 he did not believe there was "one chance in a hundred of reaching a peaceful settlement."

Hull's disclosure was made in a 45-page statement to the investigating committee. The document, read to the committee by counsel, reviewed the entire history of United States relations with Japan prior to the sneak attack Dec. 7, 1941.

Hull, looking well and reflecting his illness only in slightly faltering voice, spent only a few minutes on the witness stand.

The secretary's statement included the disclosure that on Nov. 7, 1941, he warned the cabinet the United States should "be on the lookout for a military attack anywhere by Japan at any time."

The cabinet, he said, "concurred in my estimate of the dangers."

He disclosed, too, that President Roosevelt, in a message to Winston Churchill on Nov. 24, 1941, said:

"I am not very hopeful and we must all be prepared for real trouble, possibly soon."

Hull's voice when he spoke for the first time to the committee was faint and Assistant Chief Counsel Gerhard Gesell called the secretary's attention to a microphone before him which he said would "prove most helpful."

The ailing former cabinet member revealed the United States proceeded with discussions with the Japanese to gain time to rearm for self-defense.

A last-minute "modus vivendi" was not offered Japan because it might have spelled "a major blow to Chinese morale," Hull stated.

He admitted in the closing days of November, 1941, this government recognized there was "scant likelihood" of Japan accepting his memorandum of Nov. 26 which the Japs branded as an ultimatum. Hull branded this description of his memorandum as false.

His memorandum of Nov. 26, Hull explained, was a recapitulation of the principles for which the United States had stood throughout the Japanese negotiations.

"We stood firmly for these principles in the face of the Japanese demand we abandon them," he said. "For this course there are no apologies."

Hull said the administration was trying to do all it could to achieve a "peaceful, fair and stabilizing settlement" in the Pacific and that he and the President "constantly had very much in mind" U. S. military advice time was needed to prepare for defense—both for the United States and other countries resisting aggression.

Hull revealed the modus vivendi was dropped because:

"It was manifest that there would be widespread opposition from American opinion to the modus vivendi aspect of the proposal, especially to the supplying of Japan of even limited quantities of oil. The Chinese government violently opposed the idea."

On Nov. 30, he said, the British ambassador informed him the British had important indications "Japan was about to attack Siam and this attack would include a seaborne expedition to seize strategic points in the Kra isthmus."

Reviewing the rapid fire events of the first week in December, Hull said that on Dec. 6 this government received "from a number of sources" reports of the movement of a Japanese fleet of 35 transports, eight cruisers and 20 destroyers from Indo-China toward the Kra peninsula.

"This was confirmation the long-threatened Japanese movement of expansion by force to the south was underway," Hull said.

Diplomats Now to Reveal Pre-Pearl Harbor Policy

By JOHN T. FLYNN

Copyright, 1945, by New York Journal-American

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23—The Pearl Harbor investigation, which has been hearing about military blunders, now moves into the far more murky waters of diplomacy. We are now to hear what they have to say for themselves. We are to hear Cordell Hull and Sumner Welles and Joseph C. Grew and others.

Former Secretary of State Hull was called to appear before the congressional probers today. His physician said he could testify only for 45 minutes, but he was reported to have prepared a voluminous written statement.

As they begin to stir this broth it is important to keep in mind certain features of this subject.

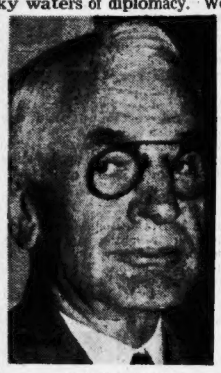
First of all, this investigation is not an inquiry into the origin of World War II. Its purpose is to discover, if possible, who was responsible for the disaster at Pearl Harbor Dec. 7, 1941.

The job of this joint congressional committee is to find out whose miscalculations and blunders caused that paralysis of a great fleet and the loss of 4000 lives. Mr. Roosevelt and three boards which he, Stimson and Knox named, have put the blame on Kimmel and Short, and later on Marshall and Stark.

This inquiry, therefore, turns to the diplomatic prologue which preceded the attack. The Army and Navy chiefs told the President solemnly that we were not ready. They begged for time.

If the diplomats could not prevent the war, they were bound to do everything in their power to stave it off until the Army and Navy were ready. Did they do that?

The Army board had blamed Secretary of State Hull for robbing the armed services for this precious element of time by handing an ultimatum to the Japanese, Nov. 26. Hull denies this was an ultimatum.



CORDELL HULL
Defends Diplomacy

The whole story of this secret diplomacy that led us into the disaster has never yet been revealed. The State Dept. has pretended to publish the so-called official documents. They pretended to report fully the details of the long ne-

Ernie Pyle's Widow Dies Of Influenza

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Nov. 23 (AP)—Mrs. Ernie Pyle, widow of the famed war correspondent, often referred to as "that girl" in his column, died at 7:30 a. m. today.

Mrs. Pyle, 44, had been in ill health since Ernie was killed by a Jap sniper on Ie Shima last April 18. Her physician said she died of complications arising from an attack of influenza.

Wednesday she became worse and was removed to St. Joseph's Hospital from the little white frame cottage for which her war correspondent-husband longed in his wanderings.

Mrs. Pyle had not been away from Albuquerque since July 3 when she flew to Washington to receive the Army and Navy Medal of Merit awarded posthumously to her husband.

She was married to Pyle in Washington, July 7, 1925. They had no children.

TEHRAN, Nov. 23 (AP)—An Iranian general reported by radio from troubled Azerbaijan province today 20 officials and landowners had been seized by rebels and shot.

Fighting is still in progress at the railway town of Mianeh, 250 miles northwest of Tehran, the general said. His report reestablished military radio communications between Tabriz and the capital.

INDIA

CALCUTTA, Nov. 23 (AP)—One American soldier was missing and more than 30 had been injured today as Indian anti-British rioting raged for the third day here and spread to Bombay and Delhi.

The demonstrations, touched off by trial of Indian officers who sided with Japan, threw Calcutta into civil turmoil. More than 20,000 municipal workers went on strike.

The missing U. S. soldier was reported to have left Camp Howrah, across the Hooghly river from Calcutta, last night in an ambulance. The ambulance was found this morning overturned and burned.

At least 15 American trucks and command cars have been attacked by unruly mobs since the disturbances started.

Reply to Union Weighed by GM

DETROIT, Nov. 23 (AP)—General Motors officials formulated a reply today to a proposal of its striking union employes for three-man arbitration of demands for a 30 per cent wage increase, but dispatch of the statement was delayed pending further study by G. M. President C. E. Wilson.

Leaders of the United Automobile Workers (CIO) noted a lessening of numbers on picket lines at Michigan plants of the corporation this morning and said it probably was the result of snow and temperatures in the 20's.

In some plants, salaried office workers entered to assist in payroll procedure, and a number of idle hourly employes picked up their pay checks for the week which ended Saturday.

Any further development in the dispute which has closed more than 70 General Motors production plants awaited the corporation's stand on the latest union arbitration proposal.

John W. Gibson, special assistant to Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach, predicted after conferring with union officials here yesterday that the strike would not last beyond Jan. 15.

Union leaders began laying plans for setting up soup kitchens. They admit no compensation can be paid the strikers but hope to provide food, shelter and medical care in cases of hardship from the union's $4,000,000 strike fund.

Prowler Twice Assails Woman

A crazed prowler assaulted Mrs. Lillian Peterson, 33, of Logan st., Roxbury, when she went to the cellar to fix the furnace early today, and later stood on a nearby ledge and heaved rocks at an ambulance bringing her home from City Hospital, where she had been taken for treatment.

The prowler's behavior started a manhunt through the neighborhood in which police and firemen joined neighbors under floodlights, but no trace of the suspect was found.

Police flashed a teletype message to all stations to be on the lookout for a man seeking treatment for dog bites after Mrs. Peterson reported that her pet Spitz, Butch, had aided her in battling the intruder and had nipped the man twice. The suspect was described as a lanky six-footer, about 28, clad in a dark gray suit.

Mrs. Peterson reported she was alone in her apartment about midnight when she went to attend to the furnace for the night. In the cellar, the assailant struck her in the mouth several times, then fled at her screams and the barking of the dog. Neighbors spotted him running from the house and gave chase, but lost him.

The manhunt started about an hour later when police, summoned by other residents of the house, were returning Mrs. Peterson from the hospital, where several stitches were taken to close cuts on her mouth.

A huge ledge overlooks the Dudley st. carbarn, next door to the Peterson house. The ambulance was shelled with rocks as it drove up, and neighbors said they saw the suspect throwing them from the ledge.

Mrs. Peterson's husband, John, aided police in the manhunt, which was called off after two hours. Police detailed two cruiser cars to the vicinity until after daybreak.

The Logan st. area has been the scene of activity of prowlers for many months.

Last September, sneak thieves tried to strangle Mrs. Alsace Blake, 35, wife of a soldier, while she was asleep in a first floor bedroom in the same house where Mrs. Peterson lives.

The prowlers then were routed by two plucky teen-age girls, Marie Collins, 16, and her sister, Winifred, 13, who pelted the intruder with stones after chasing him along the ledge.

Red-Point Foods Off Ration List

By ERWIN D. SIAS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23 (INS) — Rationing of meats, canned fish, fats and oils ends at midnight tonight, Agriculture Secretary Anderson announced today.

Consumers no longer will be required to turn in ration stamps for purchases of beef, pork, veal, mutton, canned fish, butter, lard, shortening, margarine or related oils.

Anderson said the decision to end rationing of these foods was concurred in by Price Administrator Chester Bowles.

Only food item remaining under rationing is sugar.

The secretary said the decision was made possible by changes in food requirements and supplies since V-J Day.

"This action will in no way affect our plans for shipment of meats and certain fats and oils to Allied and liberated countries, where the average level of food consumption is very much lower than in this country," Anderson said.

He explained that coupled with sharp reductions in military food needs is the seasonal increase in livestock slaughter, a record production of poultry, including turkeys, and prospects for a record supply of eggs.

Those factors, Anderson said, "convinced us we have reached the point where it seems unwise to ration meats."

He disclosed the department "will keep some control over bakers and other large users of fats and oils" to prevent a run on those items.

"We estimate that for December supplies of meat available to U. S. civilians will be at an annual rate of about 165 pounds per capita, after allowing for military needs, for set-asides to produce over 30 million pounds weekly for shipment to Allied and liberated countries, and four million pounds for commercial export," Anderson said.

The food boss labeled the 1946 civilian meat supply outlook as "favorable," even if there may be some tightening in the second and third quarters.

He said fats and oils would continue short throughout the world, but that discontinuance of rationing of these items in the United States at the same time meat rationing is being lifted "appears preferable to the institution of a

Warning! Save Ration Book 4

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23 (AP)—OPA today cautioned the public to be sure to save ration book No. 4 for buying sugar.

A spokesman for the agency said, however, that with the termination of meats and fats rationing tomorrow, all other stamps in book four will be valueless. So, he added, are the red tokens which were given as change for meats-fats coupons.

The sugar stamp currently valid is No. 38. It will be good for five pounds through Dec. 31.

Eisenhower In Hospital To Check Cold

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23 (AP)—A severe cold put Gen. Eisenhower, newly designated chief of staff, in a hospital today.

Suffering from a respiratory ailment, Eisenhower boarded a train here last night for White Sulphur Springs, to enter the Army's Ashford General Hospital.

The Army said Eisenhower was following the advice of his physician, Maj. Gen. Harold M. Snyder, "to prevent any complications."

The general's illness cancelled for the time being his plan to return to Europe.

He apparently had arranged to go to American occupation headquarters in Germany with Gen. Joseph McNarney, appointed his successor as chief of United States forces there.

McNarney, who had a date with President Truman today, plans to leave Washington within a few days.

Mrs. Eisenhower is ill of pneumonia in Boone, Ia., but is reported improving satisfactorily.

Lost Teeth Clue in Lynn Slugger Hunt

Lynn police today sought a man with missing front teeth as the black-jack slugger of Frederick Hawes, 38, Merchant Marine officer, of Nahant st., Lynn, who was viciously beaten when he resented slurs cast at his sister, a WAC major.

This clue was given by Clarence Rogers of Essex st., Lynn, who saw the slugger and asked him what the trouble was.

Before running away, the man said, "This guy knocked out my front teeth. He had it coming to him."

Meanwhile, Maj. Madeline Hawes, 35, who saw her brother beaten, remained at his bedside at Lynn Hospital, where is name is on the danger list.

Witnesses said two men joined in the attack and Mayor Arthur J. Frawley and Police Chief Edward D. Callahan issued orders that "these thugs must be brought in." Callahan said at least one witness was ready to identify the black-jack wielder. He is Sgt. Leon Varnum, a Lynn Army man and former State trooper, who first called police.

According to police the brother and sister, both on leave, were walking to their home in the so-called Diamond District of Lynn. As they passed the Tumble Inn, a diner on Broad st., at Banks sq., one of a group of young men standing nearby made an insulting remark.

Top Stars Shine At Hollywood Canteen Closing

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 23 (AP)—The Hollywood Canteen played its last show last night, and a lot of high-priced cheers marked the occasion.

Shortly after midnight, Kay Kyser and Bette Davis led the canteen's volunteer workers and entertainers and the audience of GIs in singing "Auld Lang Syne." There were few dry eyes as the last song was sung in the famed building that had entertained more than 3,000,000 servicemen and women.

Five thousand soldiers, sailors and Marines streamed in and out of the canteen from 2 o'clock in the afternoon until closing. They ate turkey dinners and watched an array of talent which couldn't be seen under any other auspices.

Ingrid Bergman and Jack Benny did a scene from "Casablanca." Dinah Shore sang "Yes, My Darling Daughter." Rudy Vallee sang the Stein song. The tireless Bob Hope was there, and John Garfield, Van Johnson, Eddie Bracken, Susan Hayward, Hedy Lamarr, Roddy McDowell and many others.

'Kill All Poles,' Hitler's Order

By DANIEL DE LUCE

NUERNBERG, Nov. 23 (AP)—Ten days before the Germans attacked Poland in 1939, Hitler told his generals he had given orders "to kill without mercy all men, women and children of the Polish race or language" and that German troops wearing Polish uniforms would be used in an attempt to conceal the Nazi aggression, the American prosecution charged at the war crimes trial today.

The prosecution, outlining its major case that Hitler and his chief 20 aides on trial here plotted aggressive warfare that cost the lives of millions, began the introduction of "10 documents never before revealed."

Among them was the speech, a copy of which was captured from the Germans, which Hitler made to his generals at Obersalzberg on Aug. 22.

"The invasion and extermination of Poland begins Saturday morning," the fuehrer was quoted. "I will have a few companies in Polish uniform attack in upper Silesia or in the protectorate. Whether the world believes it or not does not mean a damn to me. The world believes only in success."

In the course of this speech, at conclusion of which the German stenographic record showed Hermann Goering jumped on a table and "danced like a savage," Hitler also declared:

"The occasion is favorable now as it never has been. I have only one fear and that is that Chamberlain (Prime Minister of England) or such another dirty swine comes to me with propositions to change my mind. He will be thrown downstairs even if I must personally kick him in the belly before the eyes of all the photographers."

Attempts to introduce the surprise documents brought a storm of protest, however, from German defense counsel. The session was adjourned for the day to permit study by lawyers for the Nazis.

Emphasizing the hopes of Allied nations that the charter of the International Military Tribunal outlawing aggressive war would open a new era of peace, Asst. U. S. Prosecutor Sidney S. Alderman said punishment of the Nazis for planning world conflict was "the heart of the case."

One document submitted by Alderman disclosed Hitler told military commanders May 23, 1939—more than three months before the outbreak of World War II—that lightning attacks would be made to seize Holland and Belgium as bases for smashing Britain and France.

"Declarations of neutrality must be ignored," Hitler asserted, adding.

"If Holland and Belgium are successfullly occupied and held and if France is defeated, fundamental conditions for successful war against England will have been secured."

The minutes of the meeting were among the 10 hitherto secret documents submitted to the international military tribunal.

To Jap Foreign Minister Yosuke Matsuoka, Hitler was quoted as saying on April 4, 1941—eight months before the attack on Pearl Harbor—"Germany on her part would immediately take the consequences if Japan would get involved with the United States."

A high command plan for invasion of Russia dated Dec. 18, 1940, and initialed by Field Marshal Wilheim Keitel and Col. Gen. Gustav Jodl, declared Germany must be prepared to crush Russia in a quick campaign.

Hitler was quoted as telling his commanders Aug. 22, 1939, Russia had no interest in maintaining the independence of Poland and "Stalin knows it is the end of his regime, no matter whether his soldiers come out of a war victorious or beaten."

"Poland is in the position where I want her . . ." he added. "A factor favorable to us is Franco. We ask only benevolent neutrality from Spain. . . complete destruction of Poland is the military aim."

Heads of the vast Krupp steel empire and the I. G. Farben chemical trust, Prosecutor Thomas Dodd charged, agreed to finance the Nazi party as an antidote to Communism and later cooperated in a secret rearmament program.

Defendant Hjalmar Schacht was red-faced as he heard himself described from German documents as the financial wizard who was secretly appointed as "plenipotentiary for war economy" in 1935 and won the praise of a Reich general as "the man who made reconstruction of the German army economically possible."

The head of the great Krupp works, Gustav Krupp von Bohlen und Halbach—who was indicted but who thus far has escaped trial because of illness—was shown by German records, Dodd asserted, to have aided in raising campaign funds for Hitler in 1933 and to have declared after Hitler's ascension to power that German industry "puts itself at your disposal."

OPA Refuses Steel Price Rise Before Jan. 1

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23 (AP)—Price Administrator Chester Bowles announced today OPA "finds no cause at this time for a general increase in steel prices."

He said, however, the price situation would be "reviewed promptly and carefully" when the next financial returns of the steel companies are submitted after Jan. 1, 1946.

OPA's refusal to increase prices now has an important bearing on demands of the CIO Steelworkers Union that the U. S. Steel Corp. grant a $2-a-day wage increase.

Goldfish Life in Shanghai

Hotels Have too Many Bellhops, Pedlars

By HAL BOYLE

SHANGHAI, Nov. 23 (AP)—Leaves from a correspondent's note book: Hotel rooms are department stores in Shanghai. While the bund and Nanking road may be one of the most famous intersections in the Orient, the busiest traffic crossroads seem to be hotel corridors—particularly if you are trying to sleep.

You register as usual and ride up to your room with half a dozen Chinese bellhops, led by the "No. 1 boy," who acts as cheerleader and financial liaison man for the others. You pay him off with double handfuls of bills—it's a poor man who doesn't have a million dollars in Shanghai currency—and stretch out on your bed to rest.

Then the parade begins.

You suddenly see in the doorway—you never heard him knock—a ghostly apparition in a once-white smock, who says, "Me room boy." He will bring up your meals or carry out special missions. He has at least one and usually more assistants.

Before you can shoo them out they start shining your shoes, raising and lowering blinds, opening and closing windows, turning the lights off and on, and slapping towels around as if the bathroom had been attacked by a horde of mosquitos. You finally buy them off with another wad of paper currency, and they leave, saying: "What you want—me get."

No sooner do you sweep the boys out than in rush a series of pedlars, all let in by room boys who must get their "squeeze" from every sale.

Before you can object, they undo a silk bag bundle and riches of the Orient spill out on your bed — anything from Japanese swords to 400-year-old, bilious colored mandarin coats or French-style postcards in Oriental technicolor.

If you say, "No, I don't want silk pajamas, I want a real mink coat," he telephones his cousin, who arrives in 15 minutes with a coat "guaranteed best grade mink," but obviously fashioned from cats that died horribly of mange.

After they depart with all your loose change the room boy ushers in a White Russian who says he is a refugee but turns out to be a bootlegger. He asks whether you want Scotch or Bourbon. Trying to outsmart him, you say, "Brandy."

"Can do," says he. He steps outside the door, pulls a brandy label out of his pocket and pastes it over the Scotch label on a bottle of banana oil and sweet potato squeezings. He leaves, you pull out the cork, and two Navy officers from down the hall promptly beat on your door. They say they are looking for a friend who used to live there—but they settle for half the bottle and go away.

Emily Hahn Meets Father of Daughter

By JEANETTE SMITS

NEW YORK, Jan. 23 (INS)—Author Emily Hahn, who frankly told about her romance with a handsome British army officer in a book entitled "China to Me," today was reunited with her returning hero, Maj. Charles Boxer, 41, who promised to "make an honest woman" of her.

Emily and her four-year-old daughter, Carola, were waiting at LaGuardia airport when Maj. Boxer arrived. Both rushed into his arms as he stepped out of the big ship.

Boxer hugged and kissed them, repeating the performance for photographers. He was delighted when told that as the plane circled the field, the little girl kept repeating "Daddy, daddy."

The major was released from a Jap prison camp several weeks ago. He was captured when Hong Kong fell in 1941.

Miss Hahn, who candidly—and profitably—described their love affair and plans to have a baby out of wedlock in her best-selling book, came home on the Gripsholm in 1943.

Maj. Boxer had not seen Carola since she was a baby. When a reporter asked if he planned to marry Miss Hahn, he replied smilingly:

"I suppose so, if Mickey will have me."

"Mickey" added that she didn't know yet how the divorce stands—referring to divorce proceedings started in England by Maj. Boxer's wife, Ursula.

Boxer himself was uncertain as to his present marital status.

"For all I know," he confided, "the divorce might have been granted."

Can't Revoke Vt. Milk Permits

Dr. Frederick J. Bailey, Boston health commissioner, does not have the authority to revoke the permits of milk dealers who are now charged with diverting their production to other markets, Corp. Counsel James E. Agnew today stated.

In a letter to Bailey, Agnew said the existing permits are "not conditioned on continuance of the sale of milk in Boston." The only reason for which such permits may be revoked, according to Agnew, is the falling below set standards by the producing dairy holding the permit.

Bailey had sought the right to revoke the permits after Vermont dairies were charged with diverting their usual supply from this market area to Rhode Island and Connecticut to take advantage of higher prices.

U. S. SALES JUMP 13 P. C.

Pair Attack Salem Wife, Prisoner in Car 7 Hours

METHUEN, Nov. 23—Her face bruised and swollen, and her clothing torn, an attractive young Salem waitress staggered into police headquarters early today and told of having been beaten and criminally attacked by two men who held her prisoner in their car for more than seven hours before dumping her near the Methuen-Dracut line. She said she was Mrs. Louise Espinola, 25, of Putnam st., Salem, and had been passing Thanksgiving day at the home of friends in Lowell. It was when she left there for the depot to catch a train back to Salem that the two men accosted her.

It was raining heavily at the time and she was hurrying to reach the depot, when a black sedan drew alongside the curbing and one of the occupants asked where she was going, she told police.

"If you're going to the depot we'll drive you there, you'll be out of the rain," one of the men said.

She said that at first she refused the offer, then accepted it, but instead of driving to the depot they drove to a lonely wooded section near the Methuen line and attacked her. When she resisted, they beat her until she was semi-conscious, she said.

After keeping her in the car more than seven hours, they pushed her out and she made her way into Methuen. She gave police the registration number of the car, a black sedan, and described both of her attackers.

One of the men she described as about 29, 5 feet 10 inches tall, slim and with long, thin face, wearing a light gray suit but no coat or hat. The other she described as about 25, 5 feet 4 inches tall, dark complexioned and dark hair, without coat or hat. Both spoke with foreign accent, she said.

After being given first aid treatment at the station, the victim asked to be taken to the home in Ford st., Lowell, where she had spent the Thanksgiving holiday.

Detectives Roland Kinlock and Dennis Mahoney drove her to the Lowell address, and on their return launched a search for her assailants.

They were to be joined later by Lowell detectives and the victim, who offered to aid.

Residents in the section where the girl said she was attacked told the detectives they heard screams coming from the direction of the woods, but had been unable to trace them.

Beatings Free 16-Year-Old 4th Wife of Man, 53

Isabelle Bertino, Brookford st., Roxbury, who at 16 became the fourth bride of a man now 53, was granted an uncontested divorce in Suffolk Probate Court today when she testified she was punched and choked because she objected to her husband's "other women."

She said she was married in 1937 to Santo Bertino but did not know that he had been thrice divorced until after her honeymoon.

Mrs. Bertino told Judge Wilson she got her worst beating when she discovered her hubby writing a letter to another girl friend. Only the presence of a son by one of Bertino's other marriages saved her, she testifeid.

"Why isn't the son here to testify?" Judge Wilson asked.

"He was killed in action," she replied.

"I'm granting this divorce on grounds of cruelty, and if I had my way this man would be put out of marriage circulation," the judge commented.

Also granted uncontested divorces were: Edith C. Stotz, School st., Jamaica Plain, divorced on cruelty grounds from Brenton I. Stotz, and Elizabeth Beaton Brown of Hereford st., Back Bay, who was freed from Ralph Brown.

Wives' Arrival to End GIs' Loose Living

BERLIN, Nov. 23 (AP)—Brig. Gen. J. L. Whitelaw said today the sooner the U. S. Army brings over wives the better in order "to stop this loose living going on here."

The deputy chief of staff in the Berlin district told correspondents he understood wives would arrive in the spring and families would live on a basis which likely would be equivalent to that in Army posts in the United States.

$500 Auto Bonus Probed by OPA

NEW YORK, Nov. 23 (AP)—The New York OPA office disclosed today it was investigating reports of a scheme under which prospective purchasers of new automobiles allegedly pay a bonus as high as $500 for a low number purchase contract.

NEW YORK, Nov. 23 (AP)—Time magazine said today two Massachusetts men had advised its London office they were optimistic over Boston's chances of becoming headquarters of the United Nations organization.

The view was expressed by William J. MacDonald and Robert Burgess Stewart, advance members of the Massachusetts delegation.

The magazine said a cable from its London office quoted them as saying they were extremely encouraged.

Gov. Tobin and members of the group leaving for London tomorrow will broadcast over the Yankee Network tonight at 10, outlining to Massachusetts residents the committee's plan for bringing UNO to the State.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 23 (AP)—The partly clothed body of 9-year-old Shirley Ann Coxey was found beside an alley in an area here today. Police said she had been brutally beaten and criminally attacked.

Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Coxey, who own a rooming house, reported her missing last night.

The spot where the body was found is some distance from her home and Police Capt. Selle said she presumably had been picked up by a man in an automobile who beat and assaulted her, then left her to die in the secluded alley.

Nurses' Choice

TROY, N. Y., Nov. 23 (AP) —Thirty Navy nurses, veterans of more than two years overseas duty, chose bananas first, turkey second, for their Thanksgiving dinner.

The nurses, who landed yesterday in Boston, left a westward bound train here last night to eat a USO-sponsored turkey dinner. In the USO lounge they spied a stalk of bananas.

In a few minutes the nurses, explaining they hadn't had any of the fruit in years, had stripped the stalk. They went then to feast on turkey.

U. S. Holds A-Bombs Till UNO Takes Over

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23 (AP)—Atomic bombs being made in the United States almost certainly will remain here until the United Nations Organization acts on proposed world control measures.

So far no question of sharing physical possession of the bombs, even with Britain, has arisen, it was learne dtoday from top government informants. Their hope is it may never arise.

American policy, these authorities said, is pegged to international handling of the whole range of atomic problems. Hence officials would like to avaid any impression that this country and Britain were dividing up the bombs between them as if in preparation for a war which actually they are seeking to prevent.

The question of who is to possess the bombs in the immediate future was raised with various persons familiar with the recent Truman-Attlee talks as a result of incidents indicating Britain might have asked and been promised a share of them.

Former Prime Minister Churchill told Parliament Nov. 7 Britain, which helped developed the bomb, should aid the United States in guarding it "as a sacred trust" until eventually the takeover. Then he added the British should make the bombs and should have them in Britain "even if manufactured elsewhere" with the least possible delay.

Three days later Prime Minister Attlee began the conference with President Truman and Prime Minister Mackenzie King which resulted in proposals to hand over to the United Nations the problem of controls.

Mr. Truman told a news conference this week the bombs were still being made in this country for what he described a sexperimental purposes.

This posed the question, did Attlee ask and receive assurances from Mr. Truman some of the bombs should be turned over to Britain immediately?

The answer of top officials to this is that neither in those conversations nor otherwise has the questio nof sharing possession of the bombs with Britain ever come up.

"Can Split Atom, Dare Not Split Big Three"

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23 (AP)—Rep. Helen Gahagan Douglas (D.) of California today demanded this country invite Russia and Britain to a Big Three atomic bomb conference.

"We can afford to split the atom, but we cannot afford to split the "Big Three," Mrs. Douglas told the House.

She described as "a disappointment" the Anglo-American-Canadian proposal to turn over to a United atins Commission problems of atomic bomb controls.

A resolution released with her speech proposed President Truman invite Britain and Russia to the Big Three parley.

Kerrigan Held In $50,000 Bail

James P. Kerrigan, 29, Paul Gore st., was held in $50,000 double surety for the grand jury in Roxbury court today after he waived examination on three complaints charging armed robbery and two more charging conspiracy to rob.

Kerrigan, captured at gunpoint in Providence Nov. 5, was the first of an alleged gang of holdup men named in connection with more than a score of recent Greater Boston robberies, to fall into police hands.

His alleged accomplices, Arthur Stegeman, 29, and James Bergen, 30, were arrested in a Trumbull, Ct., hideaway last week and a fourth alleged member of the gang, Samuel Jackson, 30, Intervale st., Roxbury, is being held in $40,000 at Charles st. jail for grand jury action.

This Is My Story ★ ★

By Gen. Jonathan Wainwright

By GEN. JONATHAN M. WAINWRIGHT

[Copyright, 1945, King Features Syndicate, Inc. Reproduction in whole or in part strictly prohibited.)

(In the 41st article of his story, Gen. Wainwright relates the means by which he came back to the arms of free America.)

Maj. Lamar, the doctor who had parachuted on Mukden to evacuate me, woke me at 7:30 on the wonderful morning of Aug. 27, 1945, to tell me breakfast was ready—the first such kind of arousing I had had in years.

He had attended to everything. Two of his men had cooked us an incomparable feast of processed ham, powdered eggs, fruit, toasted crackers and coffee.

We drove to the airport at 9 a. m. and there I was reunited with friends I had not seen for many months: Gen. Beebe, my aides Johnny Pugh and Tom Dooley, my old assistant chief of staff for supply, Col. Galbraith, and others.

We took off just before 10 a. m. on Aug. 27.

At 4:30 that afternoon we put down at the American air base at Sian, in China, a place with the same name as that of our late Manchurian prison camp, but as different as night from day.

The mess was hard for any of us to believe, for there was all the food we could eat, and to top off, cherry pie a la mode.

Sight of Old Glory

The next morning I appeared at reveille for the raising of The Flag on a new pole. It was a blood-tingling sight, for it was the first American flag we had seen since the last one came down on Corregidor.

We were in Chungking by 1:30 that afternoon. Gen. Wedemeyer greeted us most cordially at the short, colorful Chungking airstrip and took Gens. Moore, Jones, Beebe and me to fine quarters in his home where he saw to it that we had luxurious baths, and replaced some of our scarecrow clothing with his own fine uniforms.

After another perfect day in Chungking, part of which I spent with my old and dear friend, Maj. Gen. Pat Hurley, I took off on Aug. 30 in Lt. Gen. Stratemeyer's specially rebuilt B-17 for Manila —accompanied by Beebe, Pugh, Dooley and Sgt. Carroll, survivors of the party which had accompanied me to the surrender to Homma. Gen. Percival also accompanied me.

It was a long but perfect flight, unmarred even by the sight of some Jap fighter planes in the air as we passed Hongkong. We arrived at Nichols Field on the outskirts of Manila at 5:30 p. m.

Manila a Ruin

Manila was shockingly destroyed. The very contour of the city seemed changed.

That night Col. Sid Hoff, detailed by MacArthur to look out for us, brought in a tailor who altered the uniform Gen. Wedemeyer had given me in Chungking and made it come closer to fitting my towering skin and bones. Col. Hoff then produced a barber, ordered dinner served in our rooms, and dumped a small mountain of jackets, shirts, insignia, theater ribbons, toilet articles and other needed supplies in our rooms.

By late afternoon of this same Aug. 31 we were flying over Tokyo Bay. We put down at Atsugi airfield about ten miles out of Yokohama and were taken to the Grand Hotel in the city in some old and battered Jap army cars.

Churchill, Bevin Clash on Greece

LONDON, Nov. 23 (AP)—Winston Churchill and Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin clashed in Commons today over the Labor government suggestion of a three-year postponement of the Greek plebiscite on the fate of the monarchy.

Bevin precipitated the argument during a debate on foreign affairs by saying he had suggested the vote by March, 1948.

Storming to his feet, the wartime premier shouted:

"A delay of two or three years" on the question of a monarchy or republic "would be wrong, for it is a burning question in Greece."

Bevin snapped back: "I defy anybody to run a plebiscite in Greece at the present time."

Earlier, the foreign secretary asked the great powers of the world to "say exactly what they want either in territory or bases" to allay suspicions that might jeopardize peace.

Four-Way Battle in Sight On Army Surplus Sales

By FRANCES MUSIC

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23 (INS)—A battle royal reportedly brewed today over disposition of surplus ordnance equipment valued at "hundreds of millions of dollars." A War Department ordnance officer said this "four-way tug-of-war" rages while tremendous supplies, including firearms and automotive equipment, remain stocked in Army warehouses and government disposal agencies: "The public wants the ordnance items cheaply; big manufacturers and labor unions want to keep the supplies out of the public's hands.

"Large distributors insist that the equipment be turned loose to them in large quantities for public sales; small distributors want the material released to them in little amounts."

Meantime, the situation was said to be aggravated by dealings between War Department ordnance and the Surplus Property Administration, which the spokesman revealed are steeped in disagreement.

The officer questioned why large amounts of equipment turned over to disposal agencies had not appeared on the civilian market.

The following items possibly convertible for civilian use included:

Seventy thousand bayonets, 3000 flare pistols, 22,060 Victory trainer rifles, 125,000 shotguns, about 1000 .38 and .32 caliber pistols and some 1000 .22-caliber rifles.

"Now is the time to sell," the spokesman declared, "before the hunting season is over."

Large manufacturers, the spokesman continued, feel that flow of the items to the civilian market would cut in on their business.

As for pricing the material once it is jarred loose from the government for sale to the public, the officer declared:

"If it's low we will be competing with manufacturers; if the price is high the goods aren't worth it; and if the prices duplicate those of civilian manufacturers the public won't buy—the goods would stay on our hands.

"Meantime huge Army warehouses are loaded with supplies and no move has been made to take it off our hands," the officer complained. "There is an awful lot of surplus automotive equipment."

World War II Memorial Plan Backed by Rep. Lane

Promising his heartiest and vigorous support, Cong. Thomas J. Lane of Lawrence today gave enthusiastic endorsement to the plan to erect a memorial in Washington to honor the unknown Americans who gave their lives in battle in World War II.

The memorial, similar to the tomb of the Unknown Soldier in the nation's capital, would honor the dead of both European and Pacific war theatres. It was suggested editorially by the Record-American and Sunday Advertiser and other Hearst papers. Congressman Lane said:

"Your suggestion for the establishment and erection of a memorial for the purpose of honoring the Unknown Soldier of World War II will have my heartiest and vigorous support.

"I have purposely hesitated in filing legislation on this matter since bills have already been filed by Congresswoman Edith Nourse Rogers and Congressman James M. Curley.

"Proper recognition was given to the Unknown Soldier of World War I and there is no justifiable reason why the same recognition and acknowledgement should not be given to the Unknown Soldier of the second World War.

"The expense involved cannot be questioned when we as members of Congress know of the millions, yes, billions of dollars spent for other purposes. We have all voted to appropriate money to help others outside of the United States, and it is high time that we appropriate sufficient money not only to erect this memorial, but to see to it that the proper respect for the memorial is retained by a continuous guard being placed there by the War Department.

'Devil's Drivers' Dock in Boston

The "Devil's Drivers from Hell's Highway," 628 Negro troops who have been around the world during the past three years, arrived here aboard the SS Samuel Adams, one of four transports bringing troops into Boston today.

The Belle Isle arrived with 146 troops, 13 of them New Englanders, from Greenland, and the SS Charles S. McNary, out of Leghorn, Italy, brought home 31 troops, 15 of them Nisei from Hawaii.

The transport William T. Barry, also out of Leghorn, debarked members of the 92nd Infantry Division, all colored troops who served with the Fifth Army in Italy.

Among those on the Belle Isle were PFC Thomas Young of Grant ave., Medford, and Sgt. Roland Germaine of Holyoke.

The 15 Hawaiian-Americans aboard the McNary expressed concern when informed of the rioting between civilians and naval personnel at Honolulu.

200 Japs Loot U. S. Food Store

TOKYO, Nov. 22 (AP) — An American Army warehouse was broken into by rioting, hungry Japanese at Sendai today, while warlords whose dreams of conquest had brought incipient famine surrendered one by one to Allied jailers.

Two hundred Japanese laborers, including women, ransacked the Army warehouse, taking food and other items, Sendai police reported. The police arrested 180 persons, including 94 women.

THE LABOR WAR

THE NATION'S plague of strikes, which has been increasing in both menace and intensity ever since the end of the war, has now passed from the stage of isolated work stoppages involving scores or hundreds of workers in individual industries to the blighting stage of MASS WORK STOPPAGE involving hundreds of thousands of workers in a major field of American industrial production.

The General Motors strike has brought almost the entire automotive machinery of the nation to a GRINDING STOP.

It has thrown into idleness many more workers than the several hundred thousand striking directly at General Motors.

All of the automotive industries of the nation, in varying degree and with few exceptions, depend upon General Motors for parts and services in such a manner that they will not be able to continue in operation.

When the full effect of the strike spreads, as it must, to the sources of materials and the channels of distribution, the total unemployment in the country will be tremendously larger and the degree of industrial stagnation will cause injury throughout the entire structure of national productive enterprise.

THIS IS a situation that goes far beyond the usual limits of labor controversy. It is crippling the ability of the whole country to produce the essential goods of industry, and thus to sustain itself.

It is WAR against the people of the country, against their jobs, their livelihood, their welfare and their security.

How long will the American people be willing to SUBMIT to the ravages and devastation of labor warfare on this scale?

Inevitably the majority of the people, in their own self-interest, will insist upon a better way of settling labor controversy than strikes which make cruel and unnecessary war upon all the people.

There IS a better way, as the people well know and as the responsible leaders of labor, industry and government must be compelled to recognize.

Arbitration of labor disputes should be the permanent LAW of the country.

It should be administered by permanent, impartial and competent COURTS of arbitration, created by law.

It should be COMPULSORY arbitration, in both the matter of submission of issues by labor and management and their ADHERENCE to decisions made under it.

THE PRESENT plague of strikes, of which the General Motors strike is the worst to date but only the forerunner of impending mass work stoppage on an even larger scale, is driving the American people to a DECISION in this matter.

The American nation has only one ALTERNATIVE to compulsory arbitration, and they are experiencing the ruinous effects of that alternative NOW.

It is the alternative of callous and tragic LABOR WAR, conducted without regard for the rights and interests and security of the people—and thus conducted AGAINST the people.

BUY YOUR BOND

THE Victory Loan campaign gives all Americans an opportunity to prove to each fighting man that his sacrifice was not in vain and that a better and more understanding world awaits him.

It is therefore both patriotic and necessary for every person with a salary or income to buy at least one bond in the next four weeks.

Certainly there is no finer Christmas present obtainable anywhere.

It never depreciates in value.

It grows constantly and not only benefits the recipient but also performs the highest kind of unselfish service, such as paying for the return of millions of soldiers and sailors, caring for the wounded and educating discharged veterans.

The people of Massachusetts supported their country splendidly in war.

Let their record in peace be equally good.

A BEAUTY SHOP on Broadway, near 123d st., Manhattan, was used for scenes in that remarkable film "The House on 92d St." The owner gave permission for the filming as a patriotic duty. Name of shop was not used in the film but people have recognized it. Now some New Yorkers believe the shop actually employed a spy as shown in the film scenes. This has had an adverse effect on the owner's business in addition to proving socially embarrassing. That's tough on a person entirely motivated by the idea of patriotic co-operation. I suggest a letter stating the facts be secured from Edgar Hoover of the FBI and placed in the shop's window.

ALMOST CONFIDENTIAL: Dishwashers in many New York restaurants are now paid seven dollars a day. Before the war the usual pay for this activity was $11 a week . . . Winston Churchill's favorite film is "Lady Hamilton." President Truman's, "The True Glory," and Stalin's, "The Great Waltz," F. D. Roosevelt's was "Wilson." Hitler's was "The Blue Angel" . . . Eric Palmer, eminent Brooklynite, says he is one of a group of fellows that has been meeting weekly for a game of pinochle for a period of 25 years. "Let California top that," says Eric.

OVER FORTY: Am informed that, at the age of 47, Mrs. C. D. Bulgier of Beaumont, Tex., gave birth to a bouncing baby girl. Women who become mothers after the age of 40 should form a club. Seem to be quite a few of them. No doubt members of such a club could exchange some interesting anecdotes.

You can walk miles in every direction in Manhattan and never see a cigar store indian. Incidentally, the permanent trophy for the annual Northwestern-Illinois football game is a cigar store indian . . . Al Morano. They say men don't like to have a woman for a boss. Al has one and seems quite contented. He is the secretary of Congresswoman Clare Boothe Luce.

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS: Q—Exactly what is a crepe Suzette and what Suzette was it named after? A—Pancakes in burning rum. Don't know what Suzette was honored. I'll have to ask George Rector. Q—Name some of the Cincinnati Reds who played on same team as "Dummy" Hoyt. A—Wasn't his name "Dummy" Hoy? That is, without the "T"? Anyway, never saw him play. Was before my time so can't recall his teammates. Q—You say Irene Dunne was born in Louisville, Ky. A Chicago newspaperman says she was born in Madison, Ind. Who is right? A—I still think Irene was born in Louisville, Ky., but if I am wrong the newspaperman gets the package of cigarets or a tin of pipe tobacco. Chicago newspapermen never smoke stogies.

SAYS SHE: "As to the matter of women removing their hats in theaters," writes a San Franciscan, "My husband is a stickler for the observation of this courtesy. The other night at a film theater only separate seats were available. I was seated directly in front of my husband. He immediately tapped me on the shoulder and asked me to remove my hat, which was no more than a "beanie" with a half inch ruffle around the front. A little later he tapped me on the shoulder again and asked me to quit moving from side to side. I believe he was within his rights in doing this but the woman sitting next to me not knowing he was my husband whispered: 'Why don't you tell that pest to go fry an egg?' That's the attitude many women have on the subject of theater etiquette."

COOKS: What is the extent of the advantage of having a husband who can cook? Of course, it must be nice for a wife to be occasionally relieved of the cooking duties but a husband who is a culinary expert might be difficult to please. We will have our Mules & Men experts investigate this angle. Anyway, an Oakland bachelor says that twice a week he cooks a dinner for his girl friend. And that the young woman says he is a better cook than her mother.

"Pardon me, while I put on my glove!"

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Copyright, 1945, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

NEW YORK, Nov. 23—If understanding and tolerance be the price of good relations between the United States and Russia, indeed of peace in the world, then the American people must repudiate some of our most precious wall mottoes.

Westbrook Pegler

Certainly we cannot continue to denounce aggressors and reconcile ourselves to a relation amounting to a partnership with the nation which seized the Baltic Republics in a deal with Hitler, parallel to some of his own seizures which we scornfully condemn, and, by attacking a weak and unoffending Finland, aroused our righteousness to such a degree that the late President Roosevelt bitterly accused the Soviet Union.

These are embarrassing facts to recollect but they are all in the record and it were better to acknowledge and submit to them than to try to accommodate the national mind and soul to lies.

The chronology of events in the period between Hitler's treaty with Stalin, which actually touched off the war, and Hitler's attack on Russia, cannot be changed by denials and, indeed, our own government issued an official publication, a straight, factual, unemotional diary, which proves to any honest person that we are not, as we have said, an enemy of aggression.

We have used this cliche to deceive ourselves and adorn our war motives with a false nobility that cannot be proved when our actual motive of self-preservation was noble enough.

WERE WE implacable enemies of all aggression and oppression of the weak, as such, we should now be at war with Russia to redress wrongs identical in character and method with Hitler's. We are not, however, nor by the record of our treatment of the American Indian tribes, are we ourselves innocent of aggression and that same infiltration and duplicity that Hitler practiced.

We will never understand Russia if we try to picture Russia as a peace loving and unaggressive nation, and if we must be tolerant of the ways in which they differ from us we must tolerate in them a good deal of the same ideology that we objected to in Hitler who got his from Mussolini who merely adapted Communism and its methods and brutality to his own ambitions.

A GENERATION of children in the schools today will naturally ask how they are to distinguish between the Communist "government" of Finland, which Russia organized and recognized, and the Quisling government which Hitler arranged in Norway.

They will be unable to find virtue in Russia's procedure in the Baltic Republics, starting with "treaties of mutual assistance" and followed within weeks by "requests" from their Communist Quisling parliaments for absorption into Russia—all by arrangement with Hitler whose own use of the same plan their teachers will condemn as foul aggression.

If we teach them the facts of history and justify Russia while we damn Hitler they will have us to blame if they grow up crooks and liars and, in their time resort to the same ways to absorb Latin American countries.

On the other hand, if they are taught the truth as nearly as it can be got at, which is approximately just that Hitler and the Japanese were enormously strong and spoiling for a fight and that we fought them because we were obviously their next victim, they will not be troubled by irreconcilable conflicts in our story.

THE EXTENSION of the American system of government and the liberties which it undertakes to guarantee to the whole world is impossible and not necessarily desirable.

We can't inflict freedom on the Russians and no sane American would want to try.

Neither are we in any position to impose freedom on the beaten Germans and our own Communists and radicals, notably those in the National Maritime Union, who are now raising a clamor for the return of all American troops from all theaters of war and threatening to tie up the ships with a strike unless our government concentrates on this movement to the neglect of all other uses of our ships.

As to atrocities and massacres, we are proceeding righteously against a select group of offenders, the Germans, because they were our enemies and they lost and can't prevent us.

But we are hypocritical to tell ourselves that we are punishing atrocity as such. We aren't even allowed to know what the Russians did with their captive populations, and even if we did know and their record matched that of the Nazis we would do nothing about it because we can't and lack the appetite for another fight of that size.

Hollywood Today

By Louella O. Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 23—Arthur Rank in person—I mean the British movie magnate—has cabled for Charles Laughton to play Ralph Nickleby in "Nicholas Nickleby," Charles Dickens' famous classic.

Harold Sugarman, who has offices at Universal, verified the rumor that Rank was seeking Laughton, but said Laughton is the only Hollywood actor Rank is seeking. Of course, he is British-born and has the proper accent.

Joan Crawford

"Nicholas Nickleby" was one of Dickens' first novels, and it was often said that the shocking treatment poor little Nicholas Nickleby received at the boys' school was inspired by Dickens' own experiences. Certainly, it started an investigation in London of these schools and did much to correct the bad treatment of children.

BETTE DAVIS is making a test—and, oh, what a secret one—for "Life With Father." I'm told that now the choice has narrowed down to Bette Davis or Irene Dunne, and William Powell or Fredric March. Of course, Irene won't be free and I don't believe Warners is completely sure they can borrow Bill Powell, who would be wonderful as father. Freddie March might be too much the self-conscious "actor" to play it, I don't know, but we have had some surprising performances from people when we least expected them—and Freddie has a big following, so who am I to put in my two cents' worth?

JOAN CRAWFORD is back in town and she's been in conference with Jack Warner and Jerry Wald, the producer, over her next picture, which is being written by Barry Linden. The title we announced, "Obsessed," was thrown out the window and "The Secret" substituted. Maybe you remember Rita Weiman's story "The Secret" under its original title of "One Man's Secret." Well that's it. This, Jack Warner holds up his right hand and swears, is the final choice for La Crawford, and all other announcements are imitations, frauds, or what have you. Remember we told you Curtis Bernhardt is directing her.

I HAVE just heard a very funny story about Irene Dunne and a pair of earrings especially designed by Laykin the jeweler, for Anna and the "King of Siam." They were very unusual and had taken a lot of time to make. On the second day of the shooting, Irene lost a part of one of them, and the whole company stopped and went on a mad search. Nowhere could it be found, so Irene, very much embarrassed, said she would call Laykin and order another earring. Then she went home, and right in front of her garage—big as life, was the missing part of the earring. So the shooting could go on. That's how important a prop of this type is.

THERE WERE LOTS of babies born in the United States military hospitals during the war, but only one young lady, so far as I know, whose mother is a motion picture star. Penny Singleton's three-year-old daughter, Robbia Susan, arrived at the U. S. Naval Hospital at Quantico on Oct. 8, 1942, while Penny's husband, Robert Sporks, was in service there, and the Navy Department issued the official birth certificate. Penny, you know, is "Blondie" and with Arthur Lake, has made the "Blondie" movies and radio show top successes.

BRIAN AHERNE'S new show, "The French Touch," had its tryout in Wilmington and opens in Philadelphia Monday, before heading for its Broadway run. The reports so far are very complimentary, both to Brian and to Rene Clair, who directed it. And, incidentally, it's Clair's first stage show. There's still a lot of talk that Brian will marry Eleanor De Liagre, sister of Alfred De Liagre, noted producer. They are seen together constantly. Joan Fontaine is in the East, but I don't believe she went to Wilmington for the opening, since she and Brian have talked over the telephone but have never really seen each other since their separation.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD COLLECTED AT RANDOM: It was a happy Thanksgiving for all of us—for you, and you, and you, and not one of us should forget always to give thanks for our blessings, which are so many more than they were last year and the year before, and the year before that, when we were at war; Bob Hope's brother, Jack, was operated on at St. John's Hospital and is reported to have come through a major operation nicely; speaking of Bob, Joe Di Maggio, the swat king, was his guest on the Paramount lot; Myrna Loy had Thanksgiving dinner at her home, and among those who ate turkey with her was Capt. Gene Markey. She insists they have no immediate marriage plans; Preston Foster had his Thanksgiving dinner in Mexico, where he went on a hunting trip. Wonder if the girl friend went with him; it was a happy Thanksgiving for Helen Broderick with son Brod Crawford here; Annabella went to Portland to meet Tyrone Power, who is back in this country. They had Thanksgiving dinner together.

PEGGY RYAN and her brother, Mickey, had a reunion yesterday. It was the first time they have been together in three years. He's just out of the Army; John A. Klein, former chief investigator for Buron Fitts and a well known writer, has resigned after th[illegible] years at 20th and is forming John Arthur Productions. will produce both pictures a New York stage plays; Ingrid [illegible]rgman is an honorary sergeant in the Canadian regiment "Queen's Own," so she is sending her white umbrella from "Saratoga Trunk" autographed to Canada. It will be sold to raise funds for a club house; Barbara Stanwyck is buying Bob Taylor a small plane. He sold his when he went in the Navy. I hope she doesn't intend it for Christmas, and that I haven't given her secret away.

NEW YORK, Nov. 23 — To start with, I found it difficult to write this guest column—first because the high honor bestowed upon me left me confused and flustered, and second, because the feather I wrote with was attached to a live chicken. And so, after a few sad attempts, I decided to hire a ghost writer, which I understand is pretty common practice.

Now I knew a lot of writers, but all of them are very much alive and healthy and live at Toots Shor's. Then one night, when I went down to the cemetery to visit my act, I got an inspiration. Why not find my ghost writer there?

I APPROACHED a likely-looking shade and curtsied politely. The ghost looked me over, and his sheet turned white with horror. It had been tattle-tale gray before.

"How do you do," I said. "My name is Doodles and I have a problem. I wonder if you could help me out?"

"Doodles?" said the ghost. "Sure, I know you—why, one of your jokes occupies the grave right next to mine. Nice enough chap, too, except he talks too much. Always bragging about the time he played vaudeville with Milton Berle. Doodles, your name is? The skull is familiar. Didn't I once meet you in a comic book somewhere?"

★ ★ ★

OF COURSE, I was offended and, tossing my Wolfbane to the ground I growled: "Let's not get insulting!"

"How could anything insult you?" he jibed Curtly.

"Why did you jibe Curtly?" I asked.

He apologized, unjibed Curtly, jabbed Deftly, sprung Lightly, and withdrew Mildly, which left only three of us in the game with one rubber to play. So he called to the keeper of the graves and said: "Dig us up a fourth, will you?"

When the game was over, the ghost turned to me. "Now, about your problem, Mr. Anthony?"

"Weaver's the name. And the problem is I gotta have a ghost writer for a column. Could you . . .?"

"Why, my boys, of corpse I can! How's this: TOPS IN TOWN! The Empire State Building!"

"Well, er . . ."

"I knew you'd like it! Or how about this: GOSSIP IN GOTHAM: Mary Pickford and Douglas Fairbanks have their friends worried! Or FACES IN PLACES: Seen at 'Marinka' Edith Fellowes, Nanette Fabray, Dr. Jack Weinstock, Joan of Arc . . . or GOTHAM SCENE: At the Club Foot Gabriel Heatter giving a shampoo to a bald eagle, while Ida Lupino chats with her brother Phil Philpino—get it?"

"Well I'll tell you . . ."

I POLITELY stopped him by the simple expedient of hitting him over the skull with a loose tombstone. "This is all very interesting," I purred, "but where do I fit in? What do you think of my acting in 'Marinka'?"

"Ah that's a good question," smirked the ghost. "And I have a special title just for you."

"How flattering," I blushed. "What do you think of my work?"

"YOU CAN'T PRINT THAT!" shrieked the ghost, and disappeared in a flash of flame.

Maybe I should disappear!

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23—The Office of Price Administration, which I have decided to shorten and merely call OPA, has a division charged with the task of working up public goodwill toward the organization.

This is a somewhat daunting assignment because there are narrow-minded people who refuse to take OPA to their bosoms, no matter what lures are thrown out. This is something I positively cannot understand, because I do not think there is anything more lovely than to curl up at night with a good amendment to a price regulation.

The job of winning friends for the team of Chester & Bowles has been dumped on a branch known as the "Information Division." The division sends squads all over the country urging folks to join hands in singing:

"OPA I Love You!"

Recently a squad went to Jackson, Tenn. It plastered the town with notices that a big auction of scarce goods would be staged.

Among items to go under the hammer were a brand new automobile, a set of new tires, a washing machine, an electric refrigerator, and a number of other practically unobtainable items.

The townsfolk flocked to the auction. Bidding was terrific. The automobile, which before the war would have brought about $900, was knocked down for $2800.

The tires were bid up to something considerably over $200; the icebox brought a fantastic price; so did the washing machine.

The lucky bidders were gloating all over the place when the OPA spokesman said he wished to make an announcement.

The auction, he said, was just a stunt; OPA did not have a single one of the articles auctioned!

WHEN THE YELPS of the bidders had subsided, the OPA spokesman proceeded to point a moral.

"The purpose of our demonstration was twofold," he said. "First, we wanted to see how much you would pay for these things if they were obtainable. Second, we wanted to show—in as graphic a manner as possible—what it would mean in the way of inflation if prices were uncontrolled."

★ ★ ★

THE IDEA is undoubtedly sound. If some kind of check were not kept on prices while things are still scarce the whole business would get out of control.

The trouble is that nearly everybody has money. It's the most plentiful thing in the country today.

When people have money they want to buy something with it. And they don't care much what it is they buy or how much it costs. If folks could obtain things merely by outbidding their neighbors, we might wind up with an elastic girdle bringing more than the prewar value of a Malay rubber plantation.

★ ★ ★

MY ONLY CRITICISM, which is trifling, is that I doubt OPA will acquire unalloyed goodwill through these demonstrations.

★ ★ ★

I WAS BUTTONHOLED the other evening by a fellow who—to be as generous as possible—struck me as wonderful campaign material for the post of village idiot.

It seems this colossus of intelligence lives in McLean, Va., where I live, and had read several columns in which I made reference to our beautiful community. I was only trying to be funny in my feeble way, but this chucklehead got the idea I was knocking the place.

I tried to get away from him, but he kept following me to blabber that I should try to acquire more community spirit.

"A fellow," he said, "moved into a new town and got talking to the oldest inhabitant. The latter asked him how he liked the town he had lived in previously. The newcomer said he hadn't liked it a bit.

"'Then,' said the oldest inhabitant, 'you won't like this town either.'"

WELL, I TOOK that one without thumping him in the nose, but he insisted on retelling the same story in reverse. This time the guy said he liked the town he came from and the sage replied he would like this town, too.

When the beetlehead came to a full breath, I protested:

"But I love McLean. I think it is practically an earthly paradise, give or take a little. In fact, there is only one thing in McLean I don't like."

"What is that?" asked the oaf.

"You!"

"Good morning, Dear!"

Boston After Dark

MR. PHIL REGAN HAS 16 days days to go to the end of his current engagement at the Latin Quarter . . . While he is installed with his lovely wife and two daughters in a Boston hotel, Phil will have the satisfaction of knowing that his theatrical well-being is faring beautifully . . . He will leave town in a much higher income tax bracket, and the future holds higher prospects that at any time in the Regan career.

★ ★ ★

A PICTURE NAMED "Sunbonnet Sue" will be the chief instrument in pushing the silvery-throated Celtic tenor into the consciousness of his fellow-Americans, and the citizens of other nations . . . For "Sunbonnet Sue" holds so much nostalgia that it has been previewed warmly from Hollywood to here . . . Phil sings the old songs . . . Louella Parsons broadcast a capsule criticism of the Regan performance on her latest airing . . . Lolly was high in praise of Mr. Regan.

★ ★ ★

A MODEST PICTURE—and epic only in its appeal—"Sunbonnet Sue" is regarded as the one film shot which the popular Phil needed to make the magnates of Hollywood cut that "in conference" line when the Regan agent calls them on the telephone . . . And high time . . . But Phil has more good career items in the immediate offing . . . Before he quits Boston, Majestic Records (of which Jimmy Walker of New York is president) will have released the first two Regan recordings—two records, four sides, all Regan . . . (A contract was signed in N. Y. last week for more Regans).

★ ★ ★

FROM BOSTON Phil will go to more theater dates, and on 2 January (as the Navy writes dates), the handsome young singer will open as star of the new Copacabana revue in New York . . . He will remain at the Copa for four weeks, and in March will appear in Hollywood for his next fillum . . . Several radio "guest shots" were arranged for Phil while he is working in New York, and the prediction that he will have a singing program of his own, emanating from the Pacific Coast, is passed along to you with the guarantee that it is based on more than hearsay.

★ ★ ★

ONCE OVER LIGHTLY: The most-improved musical gadget in the mechanical instrument line, we hear, is a combination radio, phonograph with multiple records and recording machine—all in one . . . It will enable its owner to transcribe a Fred Allen program, for instance, to record it, and to play the program back at will . . . Belmont (a Chicago firm) is said to be ready to offer the new ensemble in mid-winter, with production well under way.

★ ★ ★

HOLLYWOOD says that new Fords are rolling into town . . . Mike Sachs, making his way over the historic boards of the Globe Theater's stage while totally blind (and while the house is selling out consistently) identifies most of his fellow-players by their voices . . . He has been fooled by Carole King (not the ballet dancing Carol King) and Lea Wakefield . . . Comedian Sachs can't distinguish one voice from the other . . . He is sure the girls are twins.

★ ★ ★

"OKLAHOMA!'S" records should top every set of statistics for a musical in Boston . . . The $4.20 box-office price for orchestra seats is considerably higher than the late George M. Cohan charged for his great hit, "Little Nelly Kelly," far back in 1921 (summer) . . . But "Nelly Kelly's" record for an equivalent number of weeks will be topped in attendance as well as money receipts . . . Mention of the mourned Mr. Cohan brings to mind the memorial mass for George M. on the third anniversary of his death recently.

★ ★ ★

THE NEWSPAPERS reported that only 200 persons were in attendance to honor the memory of the "man who 'own'l Broadway" . . . The fact is that fewer than 70 friends and relatives were present . . . When George M. was buried, a crowd estimated at 10,000 stampeded St. Patrick's Cathedral in a overflow attempt to hear the requiem tolled over the great contemporary figure in the American theater . . . Mrs. Cohan, by the way, is very ill, and was unable to attend the memorial mass for her husband . . . George's lifelong friend, attorney, and executor of his will, "Captain" Dennis M. O'Brien, is seriously ill . . . So is his greatest friend of their mutual heyday, Joseph Tumulty, who was President Wilson's famous chief secretary.

"SEN." MIKE COHEN, who won an overcoat on Curley, and tips the scales at nearly 300, has had the loser of the wager chasing all over town to find a tailor named "Omar" . . . Mike stipulated in making the bet that the coat should be made by "my tailor, Omar" . . . For the loser's information, a character named Omar, the Tentmaker, is one of the literate (and very, very bulky) Sen. Cohen's favorites.

completely new system of rationing for fats and oils alone," involving re-registration of more than 500,000 industrial and institutional users and a possible issuance of new ration books to civilians.

Rationing of meats, fats and oils began March 29, 1943.

Market Men Hail End of Rationing

Boston's meat dealers heaved hearty sighs of relief today when informed that the government has decreed the end of red point rationing effective at midnight.

The news spread rapidly through the meat stalls of Faneuil Hall and the Quincy Market and marketmen said unquestionably the government action will bring an immediate increase in meat sales.

The end of intricate bookkeeping and red tape necessary for accounting to the OPA for the disposition of red points was greeted with delight.

Isaiah Kelley of Thresher and Kelley, in Quincy Market, expressing the general market view, said it was the best news since the end of the war.

"Rationing of meats, fats and butter during the war," he said, "was hard on the consumer, but it was equally hard on the dealer, who found his bookkeeping doubled."

Continue Fat Salvage For Cash Only

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23 (AP)—The fats salvage program, sponsored by the government since early in the war, will be continued so long as fat supplies are short, the Agriculture Department said today.

Housewives and other consumers will continue to receive four cents a pound from local retailers participating in the program but, of course, there will be no red point bounty as in the past.

Pointless Points

NEWARK, N. J., Nov. 23 (AP)—Thieves who stole 125,600 red ration points in two burglaries during the night are in for a severe disappointment today—all red points become valueless at midnight.

STABBED IN THE BACK BY ARTHRITIS

NOW is the time of the year when Arthritis is on the loose, stabbing victim after victim with its deadly dagger of pain. If you are one of those unfortunate people, here is important information for you to know. Many people suffering from nagging arthritis pains in back, knees, shoulders and hands, never suspect that these pains may be substantially caused, in some cases, by excessive acid wastes within the body.

As a dietary aid to assist the body's faster neutralization and elimination of these excessive acid wastes from tissues and joints, which in turn may tend to bring speedier pain relief to this extent, Vig-Ore Sodeom Tablets were devised by a well-known food nutritionist. Vig-Ore Sodeom Tablets contain food sodium and food iodine, two minerals of nutritional value which may prove to be helpful to many arthritis sufferers. Vig-Ore Sodeom Tablets are free from all harmful Chemical drugs. They positively do not contain injurious ingredients of any kind.

CUT OUT THIS ADVERTISEMENT and present it with $1.95 at any Nature Food Centres Store to get your Vig-Ore Sodeom Tablets. Chelsea Hubby Held for Bigamy

Gerald Francis Richards, 29-year-old defense worker of Orange st., Chelsea, and Nova Scotia, today pleaded not guilty in Chelsea district court to a charge of bigamy and was held in $2500 for trial Monday.

Richards was taken from the arms of his 24-year-old bride, the former Josephine Torre of Chelsea, mother of his five-weeks-old daughter, on the complaint of Mrs. Edna Silverberg Richards, 26, of Nova Scotia, who arrived here with her own child, now four years old.

Richards, who allegedly deserted his Nova Scotia wife two years ago, had been living in Chelsea since that time, according to Insp. Sgt. Herbert Hannabury.

The latter located the defendant there after Mrs. Richards No. 1 had for months deluged Greater Boston police with letters imploring that her husband be found.

She arrived here two days ago after Hannabury wired her Richards had been found and was a father again.

N. Y. Week Ends Gl's Pipe Dream

NEW YORK, Nov. 23 (AP)—Capt. Frank Lillyman's foxhole dream of a week of luxury at a New York hotel ended today and he said it would take another seven days to "rest up from the time of my life."

Lillyman had written to the manager of the Pennsylvania hotel outlining two years' dreaming of home and asked for "the works" on his return from Germany.

He said he was ready to pay $500 for a week of breakfast in bed, soft music, steaks, flowers for his wife, Jane, and toys for his three-year-old daughter, Susan. He was invited to stay a week for "not a red cent."

"It was go, go, go, Lillyman said. "It will take years and years to describe the week. A pipe dream came true and I've had a wonderful time."

DeGaulle Speeds Nationalization

PARIS, Nov. 23 (AP)—President De Gaulle presented to the constituent assembly today a program calling for quick nationalization of France's credit, electricity and insurance industries.

He called for reforms in public service, administration and judiciary and a constitutional change in the military structure of the national defense. He asked for "modernization" of mining, industry and agriculture and said the franc must be revalued.

De Gaulle declared the threat of atomic destruction was hanging over the world and that French foreign policy would be directed toward a role of harmony in Western Europe.

gotiations that went on between Mr. Hull and the Jap envoys.

But great gaps have been hidden from view. Many papers have not been revealed. Indeed, the full story of the last two weeks before the attack is known to but few.

The theory of those who defend the administration is that the Japs were all for war and our government was all for peace. If any man dares to question that he is called a "defender of the Japs against his own country."

But this over-simplified theory does not tell the truth and does not even remotely resemble it.

Our government had rightly condemned the lawless aggressions of Japan in China. But it never once pretended that it was willing to go to war about this.

However, it got itself involved in the European war and its European allies were spread out all over Asia. Japan had made an alliance with Germany and Italy, with whom Mr. Roosevelt was waging an undeclared war in the Atlantic.

Nevertheless, we continued to trade with Japan—to buy and sell goods to her—up to July 26, 1941. Then Japan, which had sent troops into northern Indo-China, began moving them into southern Indo-China. Mr. Hull protested that this was a threat to the Philippines and our communications with our European allies.

President Roosevelt on July 28 retaliated by freezing all Japanese assets in the United States. This ended practically all trade between the United States and Japan. Then the Japanese sent Adm. Namura to Washington to work out some sort of agreement.

After endless conversations, the Japanese proposed on Nov. 20 to Hull that both countries return to the situation which existed four months before—that we unfreeze their assets, in return for which they would withdraw their troops from southern Indo-China.

Hull turned this down, because it would have been yielding to the Japs. However, the Japs would also have yielded to us by withdrawing from southern Indo-China.

He handed the Japanese a note which called not merely for withdrawing from southern Indo-China, but for complete liquidation of their whole Asiatic plan, complete withdrawal from China and the repudiation of all Japan's treaties with the Axis, a course of action Hull admitted he and the President knew they would not accept.

The question is not whether Hull was responsible for the war. The question is whether he so managed our diplomacy as to get for us that priceless time—time worth thousands of lives our fighters needed—or foolishly, even stupidly, played into the hands of the Japanese militarists. That is the question which is now about to be examined.

Veterans' Friend

By JAMES F. McENANEY

Q—I am an ex-WAC and had a baby while in service. I am not married and would like to know if there is any way which I could receive aid for the child. L. A., Boston.

A—Suggest you contact Soldier's Aid Commission, 7 Beacon st., Boston, explaining circumstances. Local civic agencies are only organizations you may appeal to. No government provisions under above conditions.

Q—I have been honorably discharged from the Navy as a Ch. PhM. Could I sign up with Fleet Naval Reserve? Have been told that one must re-enlist within 30 days following discharge. I have been out of service nine months. W. A. G., Roxbury.

A—Recruiting Officer at Federal Building could advise you regarding re-enlistment and outline benefits under Navy's new program.

Q—My son applied for dependent's allowance when he went into service two years ago, and I have received $37 monthly. Last Sept. 28 I filed application for chief dependency, stating that my husband was in poor health and unable to work and only daughter still in school. We can hardly keep going from day to day. October allowance check was still for $37. Shouldn't the $50 amount have been approved by this time? E. M. F., Weymouth.

A—Your application for chief dependency will probably be granted, but hardly for month of October. Check you will receive Dec. 1 may give you additional amount.

Q—My son has put part of his pay in Soldiers Deposits for past two years. He states he cannot draw on this until discharged. He has a bill of over $200 contracted before going into the service and the loan company is requesting payment. Can they attach the account for payment of the loan? C. V., Watertown.

A—No, Soldiers Deposits are exempt from all liability.

Q—When I apply for state bonus, is it necessary to file claim in person or can it be done by mail? S. K., Boston.

A—It can be done by mail. You must, however, submit orginal discharge certificate and it is advised you send it registered mail, inclosing sufficient postage to cover cost of its return, also registered mail.

Free meeting places have been provided by the Boston School Committee, in co-operation with the Record-American-Sunday Advertiser at 14 school centers in the city where ex-servicemen can meet their former buddies, discuss organization plans and check on jobs. Information about these centers can be obtained by telephoning Dept. Extended Use of Public School, Cap. 5500, or inquiring at 15 Beacon st.

Salvage Drive To Start Monday

Boston's November waste paper salvage drive will begin Monday and continue through Friday, the salvage committee hoping that total collections will at least equal the average wartime collections of 1,000,000 pounds or more.

Collections on Monday will be in the first five wards, with householders and storekeepers urged to have their bundles at the curb for early pickup.

The wartime plan of giving $25 bonds to selected paper donors in each ward will be continued, names of winners being drawn from those attached to bundles contributed.

Chilton Club Tea Honors Janet Wulsin

By BETTY ALDEN

MRS. RICHARD B. HOBART of Cambridge is giving a tea at the Chilton Club this afternoon for her debutante daughter, Janet January Wulsin, a freshman at Radcliffe.

For her coming out party Janet has chosen a dress of bright red crepe with an orchid corsage. Her mother is wearing a plum dress and hat trimmed with matching sequins.

Maud Howe

Miss Kitty Finney of Baltimore, who was Janet's roommate at prep school (Garrison Forest in Maryland) and a house guest of Mr. and Mrs. Hobart for the Thanksgiving holidays, is one of the girls pouring at the chrysanthemum decorated tea tables. Head pourer is attractive Maud Howe of Needham, whose engagement and approaching marriage to Janet's brother, Frederick K. Wulsin, Jr., was recently announced.

Other pourers are debutantes Constance Minot, Hannah Bradley, Carol Prince, Sally Higginson and Charlotte Worthen.

Janet is making her debut in the same beautiful ballroom at the Chilton Club in which her aunt, the late Mrs. Edmund T. Rogers (Edith January Elliott) was presented to society 30 years ago this autumn.

★ ★ ★

TAPESTRIES, tea tables and urns loaned by prominent Boston hostesses will add charm and hospitality to the spacious rooms at 485 Boylston st., where the annual pre-Christmas sale of the Rutland Training Center will be held Dec. 4-8 under the chairmanship of Mrs. Robert E. Peabody of Jamaica Plain.

Fine hand made furniture for gifts, made by former sufferers from tuberculosis in a program of supervised rest and vocational training at Rutland, will be sold by a bevy of socialite "salesgirls."

Among the patronesses of the affair are Mesdames Wm. T. Aldrich, John S. Ames, Jr., Kingsbury Browne, I. Tucker Burr, Louis Curtis, John W. Hallowell, Charles F. Rowley, Charles H. Pettit, Gilbert Hood, Jr., William K. Jackson, Alexander Ladd, James Lawrence, Jr., Frederick B. Kellogg, Samuel Mixter and many other distinguished Bostonians.

CELEBRATING their son-in-law's return from the Navy in time for the holidays Mr. and Mrs. Edmund S. Childs of Lexington entertained Bill and their daughter, Mrs. William Nye Swift, at dinner dancing in the Copley Plaza Oval Room. Mrs. Childs, attractive in a brown satin dress and coffee and brown satin hat, wore a white orchid corsage and Phyllis chose gardenias to complement her black dress and silver fox coat.

Noted applauding the Maribel Vinson ice revue were Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Jenney of Brookline, the latter in a gay seafoam flowered toque and mink bolero over a black dress, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace L. Pierce, the latter stunning in black with twin diamond clips at the square neckline, Sabra Harwood with an Army escort, Frances Hamlin escorted by Dick Fearing and later joined by John and Louis Harding, Hannah Bradley, Navy squired, and Betsy Nichols, an accomplished ice skater herself, who got a big kick out of watching the former national champion in her latest revue.

Sauce Parade

By MARTHA LEE
Household Editor

THE LAST run often wins the game—the belt and buttons make the dress—the drum player puts the band in the winning class—and who hasn't eaten a pudding whose glory was the sauce?

Hard sauce, custard sauce, fluffy lemon butter, or rum, each has its place in the dessert parade. For fragrant rich puddings heavy with spice and rich with fruit, a mildly sweet topping is the correct sauce. But for those of the cottage pudding variety, any full-flavored and well seasoned sauce tops it to a T.

Saucy desserts such as rich plums and fruit puddings are in season now.

LEMON SAUCE

½ cup sugar
1 tbsp. cornstarch
⅛ tsp. salt
1 cup boiling water
1 tsp. grated lemon rind
2 tbsp. lemon juice
1 tbsp. butter or margarine

Mix together sugar, cornstarch and salt; gradually stir in hot water, bring to a boil and cook 15 minutes, stirring until smooth, thickened and clear; stir in lemon rind and juice and butter. Makes 1¼ cups sauce or 6 servings.

BUTTERSCOTCH SAUCE

⅔ cup firmly packed brown sugar
1 cup corn syrup
⅛ cup butter or margarine
1 cup light cream

Boil sugar, syrup and butter 5 minutes, stirring until sugar is dissolved; add cream and bring to a brisk boil. Serve hot or cold on ice cream, puddings, or sliced bananas. It thickens as it stands. Sauce may be kept for several days if stored in a covered container in refrigerator. For a thicker sauce, boil sugar-cream mixture to 234 deg. F. Makes 3 cups of sauce.

HONEY SAUCE

⅓ cup butter or margarine
2-3 cup honey
2 tbsp. flour
2 eggs, slightly beaten
½ cup lemon juice
½ pint whipped cream

Mix and cook first four ingredients slowly in double boiler until thickened. Remove from fire. Add ½ cup lemon juice. When cool and ready to serve fold in ½ pint whipped cream.

Molasses used in puddings and sauces allows for no disappointments in flavor when you dip your fork in for the first tingling taste of combined pudding and sauce. But who'd ever dream that anything so tasty could be filled with anything more than this fine flavor? Molasses, however, is right out of the top drawer as a supplier of the mineral iron. The fact is, for available iron—the iron that the body absorbs and uses—it is topped by no other sweetener. Quite a record, and a natural in making desserts like these wonderful sauces

ORANGE SAUCE

½ cup molasses
½ cup sugar
1 tbsp. cornstarch
Juice and grated rind 1 orange
1 cup water
1 tsp. lemon juice

Stir together the molasses, sugar and cornstarch, add the other ingredients and cook about five minutes. Serve hot.

HARD SAUCE

¼ cup butter or margarine
1 cup powdered sugar
1 tbsp. molasses
½ tsp. cinnamon
½ tsp. grated orange rind
½ tsp. vanilla
Pinch of salt

Cream butter thoroughly. Gradually add sugar and beat until very light. Add molasses, cinnamon, grated orange rind, vanilla and salt. Put in cool place.

Fashion

WHAT WOULD baby say if he saw how all his safety pins have been utilized by Dame Fashion? Edith Head, Paramount's top designer, has instituted a novel use for the common safety pin, glamorizing it as trimming as well as fastening on this stunning dinner dress worn by Ann Dvorak. The dress is black moire with a long tunic, short cap sleeves and very slim skirt. Even the long black gloves are pinned to the short sleeves. Of course, the safety pins are gold-plated. —R. M.

Remakes Complexion

Beauty

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE
Beauty and Fashion Editor

IF ALADDIN'S wonderful lamp, that made reality of wishes, were available to every girl . . . we're certain she'd ask for a sculptured face of chiseled features and moonlight-on-marble smoothness . . . a face that looked like the crowning achievement of the deft hand of a brilliant artist.

Appropriately . . . there is a sculpture cream . . . so named because it remakes the complexion . . . youthifies and whitens the skin . . . as it digs deeply into facial tissues to bring an awakened loveliness to the countenance and charm to the individual.

SMOOTHS OUT LINES

It is a luscious cream . . . prepared under the supervision of an outstanding cosmetician . . . blended with ingredients whose quality and effectiveness are practically incomparable. And, this sculpture cream does what its name implies . . . smooths out those little telltale lines . . . refreshes the skin as it firms the contours for a healthier appearance. It is a treatment cream . . . not to be used hurriedly or spasmodically . . . but purposefully and faithfully for the best results. Then see the new vibrancy and vitality that comes to your complexion.

Makeup is just another way of achieving a sculptured face. We try to create an illusion of loveliness . . . translating its terms by means of facial expression . . . shining eyes . . . a well-turned mouth . . . flawless skin.

GIVES AN ALIVE-LOOK

But, like an artist . . . who never applies oils directly to the canvas without a workable background of complementary colors to effect the ultimate painting . . . no woman can ever hope to achieve facial loveliness with an on-top make-up unless the original facial canvas is beautiful and clear and true.

This sculpture cream will help you bring an alive-look to your face . . . as it alerts an aging skin and smooths out facial patch-work. After the skin is cleansed . . . place a thin film of this cream over the face and throat and immediately relax . . . read or do those little things that need attention. Then remove the dried cream with tepid water . . . such a treatment adhered to bi-weekly is certain to pay off in complexion results.

For the name of this sculpture cream, phone the Beauty Dept., LIBerty 4000, or write me, care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

THAT JEWELS accentuate the beauty of the women who wear them is beautifully illustrated by Connie Moore . . . who wore this magnificently designed diplomat pin of diamonds and star sapphires suspended from a narrow palladium caterpillar chain at a recent Hollywood opening night. But in our beauty book . . . the sparkling complexion of a sculptured face is as brilliant as any glittering jewel. It IS woman's best jewel.

Plan Wedding Reception

DEAR Mrs. Beeckman:
1—I am the mother of the prospective bridegroom, and the wedding reception is to be at my home. Is it proper for me to ask the bride's mother to preside over the tea-table at the reception?

2—Should we both, the bride's mother and I, wear hats during the reception? J. R.

1—No, the bride's mother should not be "posted" at the tea-table . . . she should be free to be with you, to receive introductions to guests whom she does not know, and to have the opportunity of mingling with the guests. To preside over the tea-table you should invite two (or two for each hour of the reception) of your women relatives or intimate friends.

2—You, as hostess of the reception in your own home, should not wear a hat. The bride's mother, a guest, would wear a hat.

Poor Risk As Hubby

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:
Sometimes I'm ashamed of loving him so much; he seems completely under his mother's control. We're all old family friends, and she objects to his going with me less than with other girls. When we go out, she must know all about where we're going, that he positively must have nothing to drink, and the exact hour she may expect him after he has brought me home. We live near each other.

He seems ashamed of this state of affairs, and yet he lacks something which would help him to resist her bossing. He's her only child, her darling, her all. My parents are opposed to our "understanding," which might be called an engagement if and when his mother realizes he's 26 years old. My friends tell me I'm wasting my time. What do you think? (Miss) A. K.

Men of this type seldom make satisfactory husbands. They're apt to have no initiative. To make goal in the scramble for a living one has to stand on his own feet.

I hate to advise you to drop this young man. Probably he'd have difficulty in getting another girl who would be acceptable as a family friend. This will also answer a Boston girl who signs herself Louise.

The Correct Thing

PROLONGED VISIT? The afternoon visitor should be sure to leave before the business members of the household return home. Most people are tired and anxious to "fix up" a bit before dinner. Also, to many families a few minutes before the evening meal is the only time they have to spend together.

Russian Blouse Influence

By BETTINA BEDWELL

THE RUSSIAN influence in our mid-winter fashions is quite important, and it resides chiefly in the Russian blouse which is used as part of a dress by some of our big time designers. However, there's absolutely nothing political about the styles, and you're likely to see this blouse, for centuries worn by workers and peasants, emblazoned with the most capitalistic sort of embroidery.

Anthony Blotta, who makes dresses with the Russian blouse, likes to embroider his with a blazing emblem of the Imperial Eagles, as in the model sketched. This black wool dress has the jeweled emblem embroidered on the bosom, and it closes below the left shoulder on tiny jeweled buttons set horizontally. There is a small standing collar and loose sleeves.

Johnny Davis Peps Up Show

By HARRIS MORGAN

Johnny Davis' robust scat-singing of such old favorites as "The Sheik," "I Can't Give You Anything But Love, Baby," and "Caldonia" is the liveliest contribution to the RKO Boston's current stage show.

The new show is moderately entertaining but definitely not what is known in the trade as "whammo."

The Davis orchestra whips things up with "The Jersey Bounce" and "The One O'clock Jump." In between these numbers, Danny Baxter parks his horn for a turn at the mike to torch pleasantly with "'Til the End of Time" and "There's No You."

RKO starlet, Marcy McGuire, pleases with "I'll Buy That Dream," "Chickory Chick" and a medley of tunes and then the band goes dreamy with "Dream."

Johnny Woods' radio imitations and hillbilly shenanigans by Lulu Belle & Scotty, of radio's barn-dance show, are other acts on the bill. To give you an idea of the quality of the latter offering, Lulu Belle and Scotty would seem to set great store by and give their all to a little ballad titled "Does Spearmint Lose Its Flavor on the Bedpost Overnight?"

For screen fare, there is "Man Alive," starring Pat O'Brien, Ellen Drew and Adolphe Menjou and featuring Rudy Vallee. This is a screwball comedy with lively direction by Ray Enright and an effective musical background.

Ballet Stars Well Received

By MARY X. SULLIVAN

Leonide Massine's "Ballet Russe Highlights," opening at the Opera House last night in its second Boston engagement, was received with genuine cordiality, if not with the fervor usually accorded the more elaborate ballet openings. It would seem to have established a foothold which was rather precarious after its opening venture last summer.

With a company of only nine dancers including Massine himself, and no scenery, he has succeeded in providing an interesting evening for balletomaines as well as a showcase for a number of young dancers of considerable talent.

Because of this lack of an ensemble and traditional background, and also because many of the ballets are very short solos, the production seems to smack a bit . . . granting of course the difference in performance . . . of a dancing school recital.

The program opened with the familiar "Les Sylphides" of Chopin, with choreography by Michael Fokine whose "Spectre de la Rose" was also used, and charmingly danced by Anna Istomina and Jean Guelis. For this program, "Les Sylphides' did not seem the wisest choice for an opening. Classical in style, it seemed rather long and tenuous. A shorter ballet, possibly "Le Beau Danube," would have been more stimulating. The latter number, danced by Massine and Istomina, was especially popular with the audience.

One of Massine's objectives is the use of musical compositions heretofore not used for ballet because of their brevity. Mendelssohn's "Dragon Fly," danced by Bettina Rosay; the Rimsky-Korsakoff "Bumble Bee," by Rosella Hightower; "Hobo Dance" with Yurek Lazovsky and Massine's "Farruca" were cases in point.

The orchestra, led by Emil Kann, was entirely satisfactory and at its best in Moussorgsky's "Great Gate of Kief" overture, and in Debussy's "Clair de Lune." Massine's ballet for the latter is particularly lovely in choreography and costuming.

Other highlights of the program were the Shostakovich "Leningrad Symphony" and the streamlined "Gaite Parisienne."

Tonight's program will include several new ballets, and will repeat only two of the shorter numbers of the opening program.

Shubert's Mickeyfinn to '20s

By PEGGY DOYLE

The late Twenties, that unpretty, raffish period of speaks and knee-high skirts and come-easy-go-easy prosperity, is given a satiric once-over-lightly in "Billion Dollar Baby," the new play with music at the Shubert.

Outside of that lithe if veteran Columbus of youthful talent, George Abbott, who directed, the perpetrators of this mickeyfinn feast to the Twenties are on the youngish side, were in the three-cornered pants, the kindergarten or the aggie-trading or dollbuggy stages at the times that inspired their period-piece.

As a consequence, there is no sentimentality but a great deal of heckling at the expense of those long-agone days when Coolidge was maintaining a sphinxlike silence and the market quotations had the climbing heebie-jeebies.

Joan McCracken, as provocatively fashioned a lovely as ever mowed down a stag-line, is the "Baby" of the title. She will be endlessly discovered after her imaginative playing of this fiend-angel role, for which she left the cast of "Bloomer Girl."

Another click performance is Mitzi Green's Texas-Guinaning, which she accomplishes with infectious zest and drollery. Her and our favorite song is "[illegible] Time," which has to do with the life in the company of a Wall st. financier who even gambles on a cloud's approach to the moon and such a moon.

Mitzi seems too young for this slaphappy, hard-bitten Broadwise hostess role but once you accept the idea there's no denying the skill and the amazing verve she brings to it.

And after Mitzi, the show's chief comedy is provided by Irene Sharaff's ludicrous, charm-destroying clothes that only slightly caricature a period of shockingly unflattering women's wear.

Hedy Lamarr, Bob Walker Romp at Loew's

The paying customers' concern with who's-in-it rather than what's-in-it may be credited with MGM's latest foray into cuteness, "Her Highness and the Bellboy," presently undeeling on Loew's twin screens.

Is there a man alive who doesn't find Her Highness Hedy Lamarr devastating and now really isn't Bellboy Robert Walker the pet of the girls of all ages?

It is these two that doubtless will sell this cinematic Graustark rewrite job at the boxoffice, for the average fan is notoriously prone to be influenced in his choice of film entertainment by the names on the marquee.

Assuredly, this Ruritania-Manhattan fairy tale, which Metro's astute Joe Pasternak has produced, is not to be mentioned in the same breath with Pasternak's early and completely captivating Deanna Durbin pictures and his more recent "Anchors Aweigh."

Her Highness Hedy, heading a parade of retainers, including a lady-in-waiting, a major-domo and a wooing Continental heavy, arrives at the Hotel Waldorf of some such elegant New York hostelry. The purpose of her visit is to see again the man she loves, a roving war correspondent who now types his copy between Scotches in Jake's Joint. Patently, the man shortage in Ruritania is alarming for she gives up her kingdom for this ink-stained boor.

Meanwhile, ducking other less desirable members of the press, Her Highness encounters Bellboy Robert Walker and Rags Ragland, his porter pal, in the service exit. They mistake her for a new maid.

This misunderstanding is soon cleared up and the Bellboy is promoted to serve Her Highness exclusively. This lovely work breaks up an equally lovely friendship between him and Rags and June Allyson, a bed-ridden orphan. During this sorry interlude, Little Orphan Allyson tries to bear up as the woe-begone Ragland spells his way through the fairy-tale Bellboy Walker used to read to her. — P. D.

Comedy Rules Twin Screens

By MARY X. SULLIVAN

Escapist entertainment for a soggy holiday morning was "Hold That Blonde," the daffy film which opened yesterday at the Paramount and Fenway.

Eddie Bracken and Veronica Lake are the principals in this comedy, which got plenty of laughs even from the soggy-footed souls who had paddled their way to the movies on Thanksgiving morn.

It isn't a film to be viewed with a coldly critical eye, which would detect the Hollywood tendency to overdo everything on the premise that if a situation is funny, two more such situations will make it three times funnier. Approached in a good-humored mood, however, it is entertaining most of the way.

Eddie Bracken is in his best form as a wealthy young man who is a kleptomaniac . . . a temporary psychosis, of course, brought on by an unhappy love affair. A psychiatrist advises him to fall in love again, and as he leaves the office Eddie discovers that he has snaffled the doctor's watch. Returning it, he absent-mindedly appropriates a banana and tosses the peel away. Veronica Lake slips on it, and we're off.

The picture gives Veronica the opportunity to display her considerable talents as a comedienne, and it is her playing and Bracken's which saves the film from silliness. It has jewel thieves, mad chases through laundry chutes and up flagpoles, gunmen and everything.

Return of De Rosa Lifts BC Hopes for HC Test

By HERB FINNEGAN

One of the interesting sidelights to Sunday's BC-HC meeting at Fenway Park will be the appearance of Ted Strojny at tackle for HC, Willie De Rosa at fullback for BC. Neither has started a football game in years. Strojny was a freshman end at Holy Cross in '42. He battled this way upyard gradually and was rewarded by starting that year's BC game as tackle, paired with George Connor. It was Strojny who did the job on BC's Gil Bouley that day which spurred HC on to a 55-12 upset victory that ranks with the most famous in grid annals.

Strojny went into the service shortly after that game, returned to school only two weeks ago. He got into the game with Temple for awhile, showed most of his old ability and will pair with Donnalley at the tackles against BC.

De Rosa was an all-scholastic fullback at Everett High in 1940. He was a freshman at the Heights in '41, looked like a great prospect when war burst upon the nation. Discharged since the football season opened after serving years in Europe, De Rosa immediately returned to BC began looking like his old self until an injury kept him from participating in Villanova and Scranton games.

"He hasn't lost a thing," beamed Moody Sarno as he watched the Everett boy in practice. Yet he hasn't played a minute of football in four years.

How will he act against HC? He must be rusty, having been away from the game for four years. Yet BC men insist he'll come through with flying colors Sunday. If he does, BC's cause will be enhanced no end, what with halfback Charlie Bennett on the sidelines. At any rate, it will be interesting to watch boys like Strojny and De Rosa in action after all these seasons away from the gridiron.

* * *

"They seem to have something on their mind, too," commented one of BC's youngsters this morning as he read of Ox Da Grosa scrimmaging the Crusaders for the first time since September. Da Grosa said only Monday that HC would not scrimmage. The BC boys are not half so frightened of HC as reports would have them. In fact, like all young teams, they insist they'll win.

* * *

Starting quarterback for the Crusaders Sunday will be Lou Lemay, teammate of Veto Kissell's at Nashua, N. H., High last fall. Lemay has beaten out Walt

La Motta Choice to Beat Popeye in Garden Bout

By JACK CONWAY

JAKE LaMOTTA, leading challenger for a middleweight title bout with Tony Zale, and Popeye Woods, are eagerly waiting for the gong that will send them into action in their 10-round bout at a Goodwin A. C. show at the Garden tonight. And so are thousands of fistic fans who will jam every inch of the North Station sports palace when Jake and Popeye start swinging ponderous punches.

The Disabled Veterans Fund of the American-Record-Sunday Advertiser will receive 10 per cent of the gross receipts of the show after deduction of Federal and State taxes.

Popeye Woods

LaMotta, carrying the torch of Flaming Youth, will enter the ring a 10 to 7 favorite. The baldheaded Woods, with his skinny body and sheetlike white face, is the best short end bet of the year. If he can maintain the terrific pace he set against Coley Welch, he must be given a chance to win.

On form one must string along with LaMotta. He was good enough to give Ray (Sugar) Robinson a blazing battle recently in Chicago. While Robinson received the decision, the crowd felt LaMotta had won.

LaMotta is a solid, well set up fighting man who never takes a backward step when in the ring and who punches hard with both hands.

There are many keen judges of boxing who believe LaMotta will win from Zale when they meet. Tony, like LaMotta, is a rugged, two fisted fighting man. This writer saw him give Billy Conn a furious battle in the New York Garden. Conn was obliged to resort to long range boxing to win.

* * *

FOR LaMOTTA to win tonight he must do two things. They are (1) box as fast as he did against Robinson. (2) Hit Popeye with sufficient force on the chin or body to slow him down. Woods proved in his winning tussle with Welch that he can maintain a dizzy pace for 10 rounds. Welch tried to fight Popeye into the canvas of the ring, but he was a tired, badly beaten boxer at the end of 10 rounds. This writer never saw a boxer display any more boundless energy than Woods did as he moved around Welch.

It will be interesting to see what LaMotta will do when Popeye goes bounding back into the ropes. Woods uses the ropes much like a small boy does a slingshot. His Boston opponents have watched him come flying off the ropes and have tried to keep out of his way. LaMotta may decide to step in quickly and try to belt Popeye on the chin before he can use the ropes as a slingshot to send his body flying across the ring behind swinging fists.

LaMotta will probably direct his early attack at Woods' body in an effort to slow him up. He can later shift his attack to the jaw.

* * *

POPEYE WILL rely upon his amazing speed and tireless legs to win. His punch will also help, but it will be speed rather than hitting power that will gain for him the victory if he is to conquer LaMotta.

Woods is a boxing freak. At the age of 37 most ring men ask for their carpet slippers and a pleasant spot by the fireside. At 37 Popeye says he is only getting warmed up, and adds that after he has beaten LaMotta he will be prepared to take on Tony Zale. One must admire the old guy for his courage and for trying.

Both rival boxers came through their training sessions without suffering any injuries. Each realizes the importance of the Garden battle and each of them will be in there tossing every punch in the book.

Who do you like, LaMotta or Popeye?

I am stringing along with LaMotta as the class fighter, but I know I shall join in the cheering if the ancient Popeye comes through with a victory. Sentiment still rides high in the boxing game with those of us who have seen the passing of many champions.

Popeye Has Edge

Popeye Woods had a little margin in the weights today for his meeting with Jake LaMotta in the Garden tonight. Popeye scaled 167, while LaMotta was 164¼ pounds.

Conservation Is Urged by Sloper

By "TAP" GOODENOUGH

Former Instructor of Ski Troops in Army

Ever interested in conservation and the preservation of our natural resources, we dropped in to chat with Mr. A. K. Sloper of Pittsfield, Mass., conservation commissioner, who took up his new duties last May . . . "Conservation is a vast subject," he stated. "Its meaning implies more than merely growing a tree! Briefly, it represents the proper use of our resources, with the future in mind . . . Our youth must be brought up and educated along the line of preserving and utilizing their natural facilities at hand."

"Let's all help to keep the fields and streams of this state for its own hunters and fishermen!" added Mr. Sloper. "Someone has started a campaign to invite sportsmen here from all over the country. It's not that they're unwellcome, but Massarhusetts has too small and crowded fish and game territory for thousands of outsiders, with the exception of our salt water angling facilities, which have great possibilities."

This department has been avalanched with requests for jobs from veterans, seeking employment in the outdoors.

"We wish we could give 'em ALL jobs," said the commissioner, "but we'll have to wait. Our new budget will provide for more men here, and it should be remembered that this work calls for specialists —biologists, and the like."

Mr. Sloper believes that stream pollution must be abolished in the state, also declaring that co-operation is needed between the sportsmen, farmers, clubs, and land owners to aid in increasing fish and game.

Bearing out the failure of the recent upland gunning season, he recently hiked 50 miles through thickly-wooded areas of the Berkshires, and spied only one pheasant! . . . "WHY?" he asked . . . Well, thousands of disappointed hunters would like the answer to this puzzler!

★ ★ ★

OUTDOOR O. O.'s—Some members of the Weymouth Rod and Gun Club have found the reason for the lack of birds this fall—FOXES! . . . The boys planted hundreds of the feathered folk, only to have most of them devoured by the four-legged predators, which also contributed to the downfall of the Grand National Grouse championships, attempted in the Harold Parker State Forest . . . Wonder why there isn't a bounty on foxes?

Everett vs. Chelsea Tops Delayed Games

By MIKE GILLOOLY

Everett High School officials quite sensibly refused to gamble with the undefeated record on a sloppy gridiron Thanksgiving morning so that this game with Chelsea will be headlining an unexpected scholastic program tomorrow afternoon—kickoff time set for 1:45 at Everett Stadium.

But meanwhile, Chelsea's Red Devils have picked up a new rooting section—the entire city of Brockton.

Dennie Gildea

Coach Dennie Gildea celebrated his Thanksgiving morning by watching two of his victims, Medford and Malden, battle to a scoreless deadlock under the most miserable conditions. This game might very well have been put over but Faculty Manager Fred Nash of Malden turned down the proposition, insisting that the boys tussle in the mud.

Brockton, trouncing Waltham (19-0), could move into the State title if Chelsea won.

Boston schoolboy fans will not be deprived of the Braves Field doubleheader as Director Joe McKenney has made arrangements to swing the pair into the ball park tomorrow afternoon at 1:30.

Lynn English and Classical will play off their rivalry Sunday afternoon and Monday morning, the two squads will get together to make up one team. This combination, coached by Bill Joyce of Classical and Nick Morris of English, will meet the undefeated Manlius team of New York (with Art Spinney of Saugus on an end) at the Manning Bowl, Sunday, Dec. 2.

Coach Harry Downes can stand up and take a bow for a marvelous coaching job completed at Brookline High School—the new Class B champions, taking over from Saugus and Chelsea . . . Grant and Moffie were outstanding as the Wealthy Towners rambled as they pleased over Newton . . . on a dry field, Brookline might have won by half a dozen touchdowns.

North Quincy fans have shifted allegiance to Maynard High . . . a little school that could clinch the Class C crown for North by toppling Clinton tomorrow afternoon . . . North turned in the big surprise of the holiday by downing B contender Quincy . . . the opening play of the game clinched the title, Dave Burke recovering the kickoff for the only touchdown (7-0).

Melrose and Arlington will provide plenty of fireworks tomorrow afternoon . . . Brockton proved to be a great team in swamping Waltham to complete 10 games undefeated . . . the Shoe City eleven can travel in rain or shine.

Bob Quinn Ends Braves Service

Walker Cooper, great Cardinals catcher who has been in the Navy, will return to baseball as a member of the Braves next spring, it was reported today. Earlier this morning a story by Davis Walsh, International News Service sports writer, indicated that Walker would be sold, probably to the Tribe, for about $75,000. Then John Quinn, Braves' head, said he had nothing to reveal on the story, which has previously been hinted from Boston and other sources.

Later it was learned that a meeting was called for early this afternoon at Braves Field to announce details of the Tribe's spring plan, regarding the Florida camp, personnel of the squad and other items.

One Boston baseball expert, who has been a reliable source of news in National League affairs, said today that he believed the Cooper deal would be announced soon.

Davis Walsh's report was that Sam Breadon would soon sell some $400,000 worth of his great team, including Marty Marion, shortstop, with the Phillies being major bidders for these standouts.

If the Tribe gets Walker to catch brother Mort, brilliant right handed pitcher who apparently recovered his oldtime form after an operation late last season, it will have one of the top batteries of baseball, and with the aid of other returning servicemen will be able to make a real bid in the N. L. race in 1946.

Bob Quinn resigned today as head of the Braves Braves' farm system, he revealed at the meeting in the Wigwam offices. He has had two good baseball offers, he said, but would make no decision for the time being.

Bibeault's Future Most Uncertain

By BILL GRIMES

On Christmas Night, 1943, Paul Bibeault made his debut as the goal tender for the Maple Leafs. He was shipped to Hogtown "on loan" by Les Canadiens, who had decided to go along with an English speaking ex-amateur, Bill Durnan, to replace the faltering Benny Grant.

After losing his first start as a Maple Leaf to Rangers on "Young Canada Night" in Toronto, Bibeault shut out Chicago and beat the Bruins but he went down to his second defeat in Montreal. However, one week later, he blanked Les Canadiens in the Queen City.

Bibeault, who was recalled by Les Canadiens after one season with Toronto and sent here "on loan," shut out the Flying Frenchmen again last Wednesday night at the Garden.

For two years, the Montreal club has dominated the N. H. L. They've lost only 16 games in 110 starts. Between Bibeault's first and last shut outs, Les Canadiens have been blanked but four times, twice by Frank McCool, ex-Toronto goal minder, and once by Bert Gardiner, who, with this one exception, was never very reliable while with the Bruins, and Mike Karakas, Blackhawks.

Ironically, Bibeault will be returned to Les Canadiens as soon as Frankie Brimsek is ready to take over the berth he relinguished to enlist in the U. S. Coast Guard.

Just what Les Canadiens will do with Bibeault is purely conjecture. Along with Bill Durnan, they have Jerry McNeill and "Legs" Fraser as spare goalies. It's possible that Tommy Gorman may send Mons. Paul back to Toronto, where the quiet little Frenchman is very popular and usually turns in excellent performances.

The French speaking fans of Montreal would welcome the return of Mons. Bibeault. They are so clannish that they have never "cottoned" to Durnan because Billy is of English extraction.

Olympics Win, 11-3; Now Play Wash. Lions

Having disposed of Philadelphia 11 to 3 in the Turkey Day hockey feature last night at the Boston Garden the Olympics will now turn their attention to the tilt tomorrow night on the same surface with the Washington Lions.
